BEV UNGER

This is the second joint exhibit Bev has had at Steinbach Arts Council with Olivia Peters, the first being Art & Soul in May\June of 2015. Bev took oil painting lessons decades ago but her work in acrylics, mixed media and paper collage is self-taught and completely experimental! There are so many videos online and books to refer to and learn from. Retirement has allowed Bev a bit more time to pour into her creative outlets. "There are so many techniques I want to try, and that has been scary for me because I don't know whether the piece will turn out OK or not...but that is the fun of art. You try something. If it doesn't please you, you paint over it or take a break from it for awhile. You just have to try!" Bev is pleased to be sharing the exhibit with Olivia once again because "Olivia's commitment to her art is very inspiring to me."

OLIVIA PETERS

Olivia is a self-taught artist who uses acrylic paint to create artwork for connection. She loves that art provides an opportunity to say what can be hard, share things that bring joy and connect with people whom she otherwise may have never met. She loves to create floral pieces, abstracts and paint human faces using colour and texture to draw viewers in and evoke emotion.

Please Support Us!

We love to promote our local artists and give the community the wonderful opportunity to view their artworks. There are costs associated with these events, and in lieu of charging an admission fee, we follow the common practice among art galleries and ask for donations. Envelopes for cash or cheques are provided at the donation box at the Gallery entrance - Visa or MasterCard, or by phone. All donations are greatly appreciated!
